Sociology Professor, On Leave 14 Years, To Spend Quarter In Georgia

Dr. R. F. Terrell, professor of sociology at Morehead State Teachers College, left last week for Atlanta, Georgia, where he will spend the month of April and May during a leave of absence from the college. Dr. Terrell was granted a leave of absence from the college to undergo a serious operation, which was performed at the Good Samaritan Hospital in Atlanta on Wednesday of this week.

A member of the Morehead faculty since 1928, Dr. Terrell first came to the college as a professor of English. The following year he was appointed professor of sociology, in which capacity he has served since that time. He attended the University of Tennessee, and received his doctor's degree from there in 1927. During his senior year, he received the Algonquin Silver Star award as the most helpful and leading student on the campus.

Dr. Terrell has been active in civic affairs at Morehead, being at present recording secretary of the Morehead Merchants Club, Inc. He is affiliated with the Masonic Lodge and is a member of the Baptist church.

During his stay in Atlanta, Dr. Terrell will be the guest of his friends.

We've had to have "Grants" Moore, formerly of the Associated Press, back with us. I say formerly, because I understand a slight financial error on the company's books brought an abrupt ending to his young and trying career. Gordon has partially recovered from a spinal injury, the source of which seems to be unknown. The disease is rather common though, just ask the boys of A. Y. H. how serious the operation of "getting that bed off your back" is. As part of all 15 A. Y. H. boys, including the Navy's skipper, showed that they were not "Reds," albeit.

Earl Duncan has just been notified that he was the lucky winner of a place in the O. C. S. try-out for a position as a Marine Jr. Officer. It occupied in the new Naval Training program, Earl all steps necessary to insure its success, also regard it as one of the most potent appeals for the Red Cross Campaign. Many people do not realize what this service means. In soliciting money a number of people reasoned that if they had money to give, they would send it to the soldier in camp. They are not familiar with money being handled by Red Cross. The money sent to the boy in camp does not get him much in time of emergency. It takes a program from the Red Cross, the Army has the Red Cross write back to the local chapter for verification. This is time lost. All telegrams should go through the Red Cross if quick action is desired. Much of the money raised is used in this service. Again, if the soldier is wounded in any need a blood transfusion. The money given to the Red Cross helps build up the bank of blood plasma. Your boy may die on the battlefield because you failed to donate sufficient funds to secure the necessary blood.

The local chapter will be glad to take names of people who will offer a pint of blood in this work. Probably arrangements can be made to transport the givers of blood to Cincinnati where the Red Cross has a large blood center. If you desire to get in on this, call phone 216 during the day and give your name and address. A sufficient number of individuals offer their service the local chapter will take it up with the Cincinnati Chapter and ask for a date. Do this now as the boys need the blood—their lives on the battle field cannot wait.

* The College All-Star football team, composed of "Powerhouse" Prester and his boys, thumped their way to a 15-14 victory over the Navy Academy this week. That's a start on a good football league, if the faculty could make nine or ten men. (It, it might really get under way.)

We've just caught word of competition being offered to "Ride the river." It's "Tillie the T. N. T." (It did get worse didn't it?)

Here I go again. Give to your Red Cross and avoid your local draft board. They're looking for men like you.

clarified. In this article, the author states that "transfer of training" is, perhaps, the one of the effective process. He enumerates the research that has been carried on in recent years to clarify how much, and under what circumstances. Much erroneous teaching is the result of false conceptions of transfer of training. The theory of formal discipline as a means of transfer is very inadequate as an explanation of learning. Much research has been produced in recent years, according to Dr. Miller, which proves that we "have put too much faith in formal discipline." The author then points out that "true culture is the process of transfer of training is viewed as a 'true culture' which involves the use of that brings about an 'inner change'."
